GIATI'S NEW FIFTY FIVE
AN INTERIOR/EXTERIOR FURNITURE COLLECTION THAT BLENDS TEAK AND STAINLESS STEEL WITH SEAMLESS INTEGRATION

GIATI Designs, Inc., manufacturer of quality crafted indoor/outdoor teak furniture, die-cast aluminum furniture, Market Umbrellas, pavilions and European all-weather textiles, has introduced Fifty Five, a new outdoor furniture collection that combines the warmth and beauty of teak with the clean, contemporary lines and the durability of stainless steel. Nautically inspired, the Fifty Five collection features the finest materials in concert with meticulous craftsmanship; offering a new look with practical advantages for interior/exterior use.

Constructed of first European quality plantation grown teak, Fifty Five is as stable as it is beautiful. The new collection includes four pieces; an arm chair, a chaise with integrated wheels and tables in two sizes for four and six respectively. The teak on the chairs is mechanically joined to the stainless steel tubing in what Mark Singer, designer and company president, likes to call "seamless integration", a custom made, clean joinery that is technically difficult to achieve. The tables feature hatch top joinery reminiscent of those found on luxury yachts.

The chair, chaise and tables are designed to conveniently stack for easy storage and the table legs also detach from the bases. "My idea," says Mark Singer, "was to design stacking furniture that did not have the usual appearance of stacking furniture."

The low line of the furniture and the resilience of teak and stainless steel for outdoor use, make Fifty Five an ideal choice for luxury yacht, garden, deck, pool, patio or spa. The collection is suitable for both residential and contract applications. Inspiration for the collection name came from Mark Singer's celebration of his 55th birthday this past year.
